

Tijuana Brigada Weekender Team

Questions and Answers

What exactly is this all about?

Weekender teams are organized in order to bring health care and the love of Jesus Christ to the people of Mexico while working alongside local Mexicans.

While using the health care as a method of drawing in the people, we use their time with us to present the gospel of Jesus Christ. We often use a Health Fair format that includes activities that fall under three categories: health screening, health education, and evangelism.

What type of health care do we give?

Services that are routinely offered are dental, general medicine, chiropractic and optometry. We are always open to other specialties too.

Who can be a part of the team?

Anyone with a heart to help the needy! A good team has 50% non-medical people who are willing to pitch in and do anything.

What if we don't speak Spanish?

This is not a problem. Obviously, life is easier if there are several bilingual team members, but it's not impossible without them. The Weekender Manual, which you will receive once your application has been approved, includes phrases for team members to work on prior to their arrival.

Is there a minimum age requirement?

Minors age 15-18 may come with a responsible adult.

Minors under age 15 must come with a parent.

Do participants need a passport?

Yes, passports are required for travel into Mexico.

What does it cost?

The cost for those coming on Saturday only is $50.

What is included?

The $50 fee for the day includes: ground transportation from the Mexican Medical office in Lemon Grove, California, to the site and back, trip insurance, snack, water, a lite lunch, outreach supplies (medicine, advertising, glasses, chairs, tables, etc.), and an administration fee.

Food is generally purchased in the United States and transported to the site.

What about medical liability insurance?

Liability coverage is not generally purchased or used by Mexican health care workers; therefore Mexican Medical does not require it for medical team volunteers.

Where do I start?

If you are interested in serving on a Tijuana Brigada Team, download the Weekender volunteer application at www.mexicanmedical.com. Once you send in the application, along with the other requested forms, we will get in touch with you regarding details, as well as send you the Weekender Manual, which will aide in your preparation. Please note that you only need to fill out the application once. You do not need to fill out a new one every time you come.

How do we share the gospel?

Various methods may be used including, but not limited to: passing out tracts, showing evangelistic movies, sharing Bible stories, using puppets to tell Bible stories, working on a wordless bracelet or other crafts, and one on one evangelism with the assistance of local church members. The last station that every patient will visit is the evangelism tent where they will clearly hear the gospel presented by someone from the local Mexican church.

Do we have devotions?

Yes, we set aside time before the brigada to pray and spend time focusing on the Lord for guidance, wisdom and safety.

Who provides health insurance?

While part of your fee includes trip insurance that includes health insurance in Mexico, we ask that all participants provide their own U.S. health insurance coverage.
